Whenever one walks or moves he casts a shadow. All through life there are many people and events which shadow our past, present, and future, an important one now being Marshall's nearly-completed new school. It truly covers the present and future, but, for the past, MHS and all that has been associated with it are your biggest shadows. As you travel through your 1961 Dial, we hope that you can recognize and cherish the most memorable shadows of your past and present; we also hope that you can perceive the ones that will affect your future.

To Our Dedicated Assistant Principal. . .

Because you have been a great guiding light throughout our four years at Marshall High School, and have left behind us an immemorable shadow, we are deeply honored to dedicate this yearbook to you, Mr. William Crumrine, our assistant principal.

Mr. Crumrine's life began on a farm in Nova, Ohio. After graduating from Troy Centralized High School, he worked for four years; then he entered Ashland College, where he received his A.B. degree. Prior to entering the Army in 1941, he taught for two years in Green Springs, Ohio. Not only was he an instructor of chemistry, physics, and advanced mathematics, but he also served as athletic director and coached football, basketball, and baseball.

Mr. Crumrine's military service included training in the infantry, medical, and aviation branches; then he was assigned to the West Coast Flying Training Command, where in April, 1943, he received his commission as second lieutenant. After many assignments, including Hq., and Hq. U.S. Air Force, Washington, D.C., he returned to civilian life and reserve status in April, 1946.

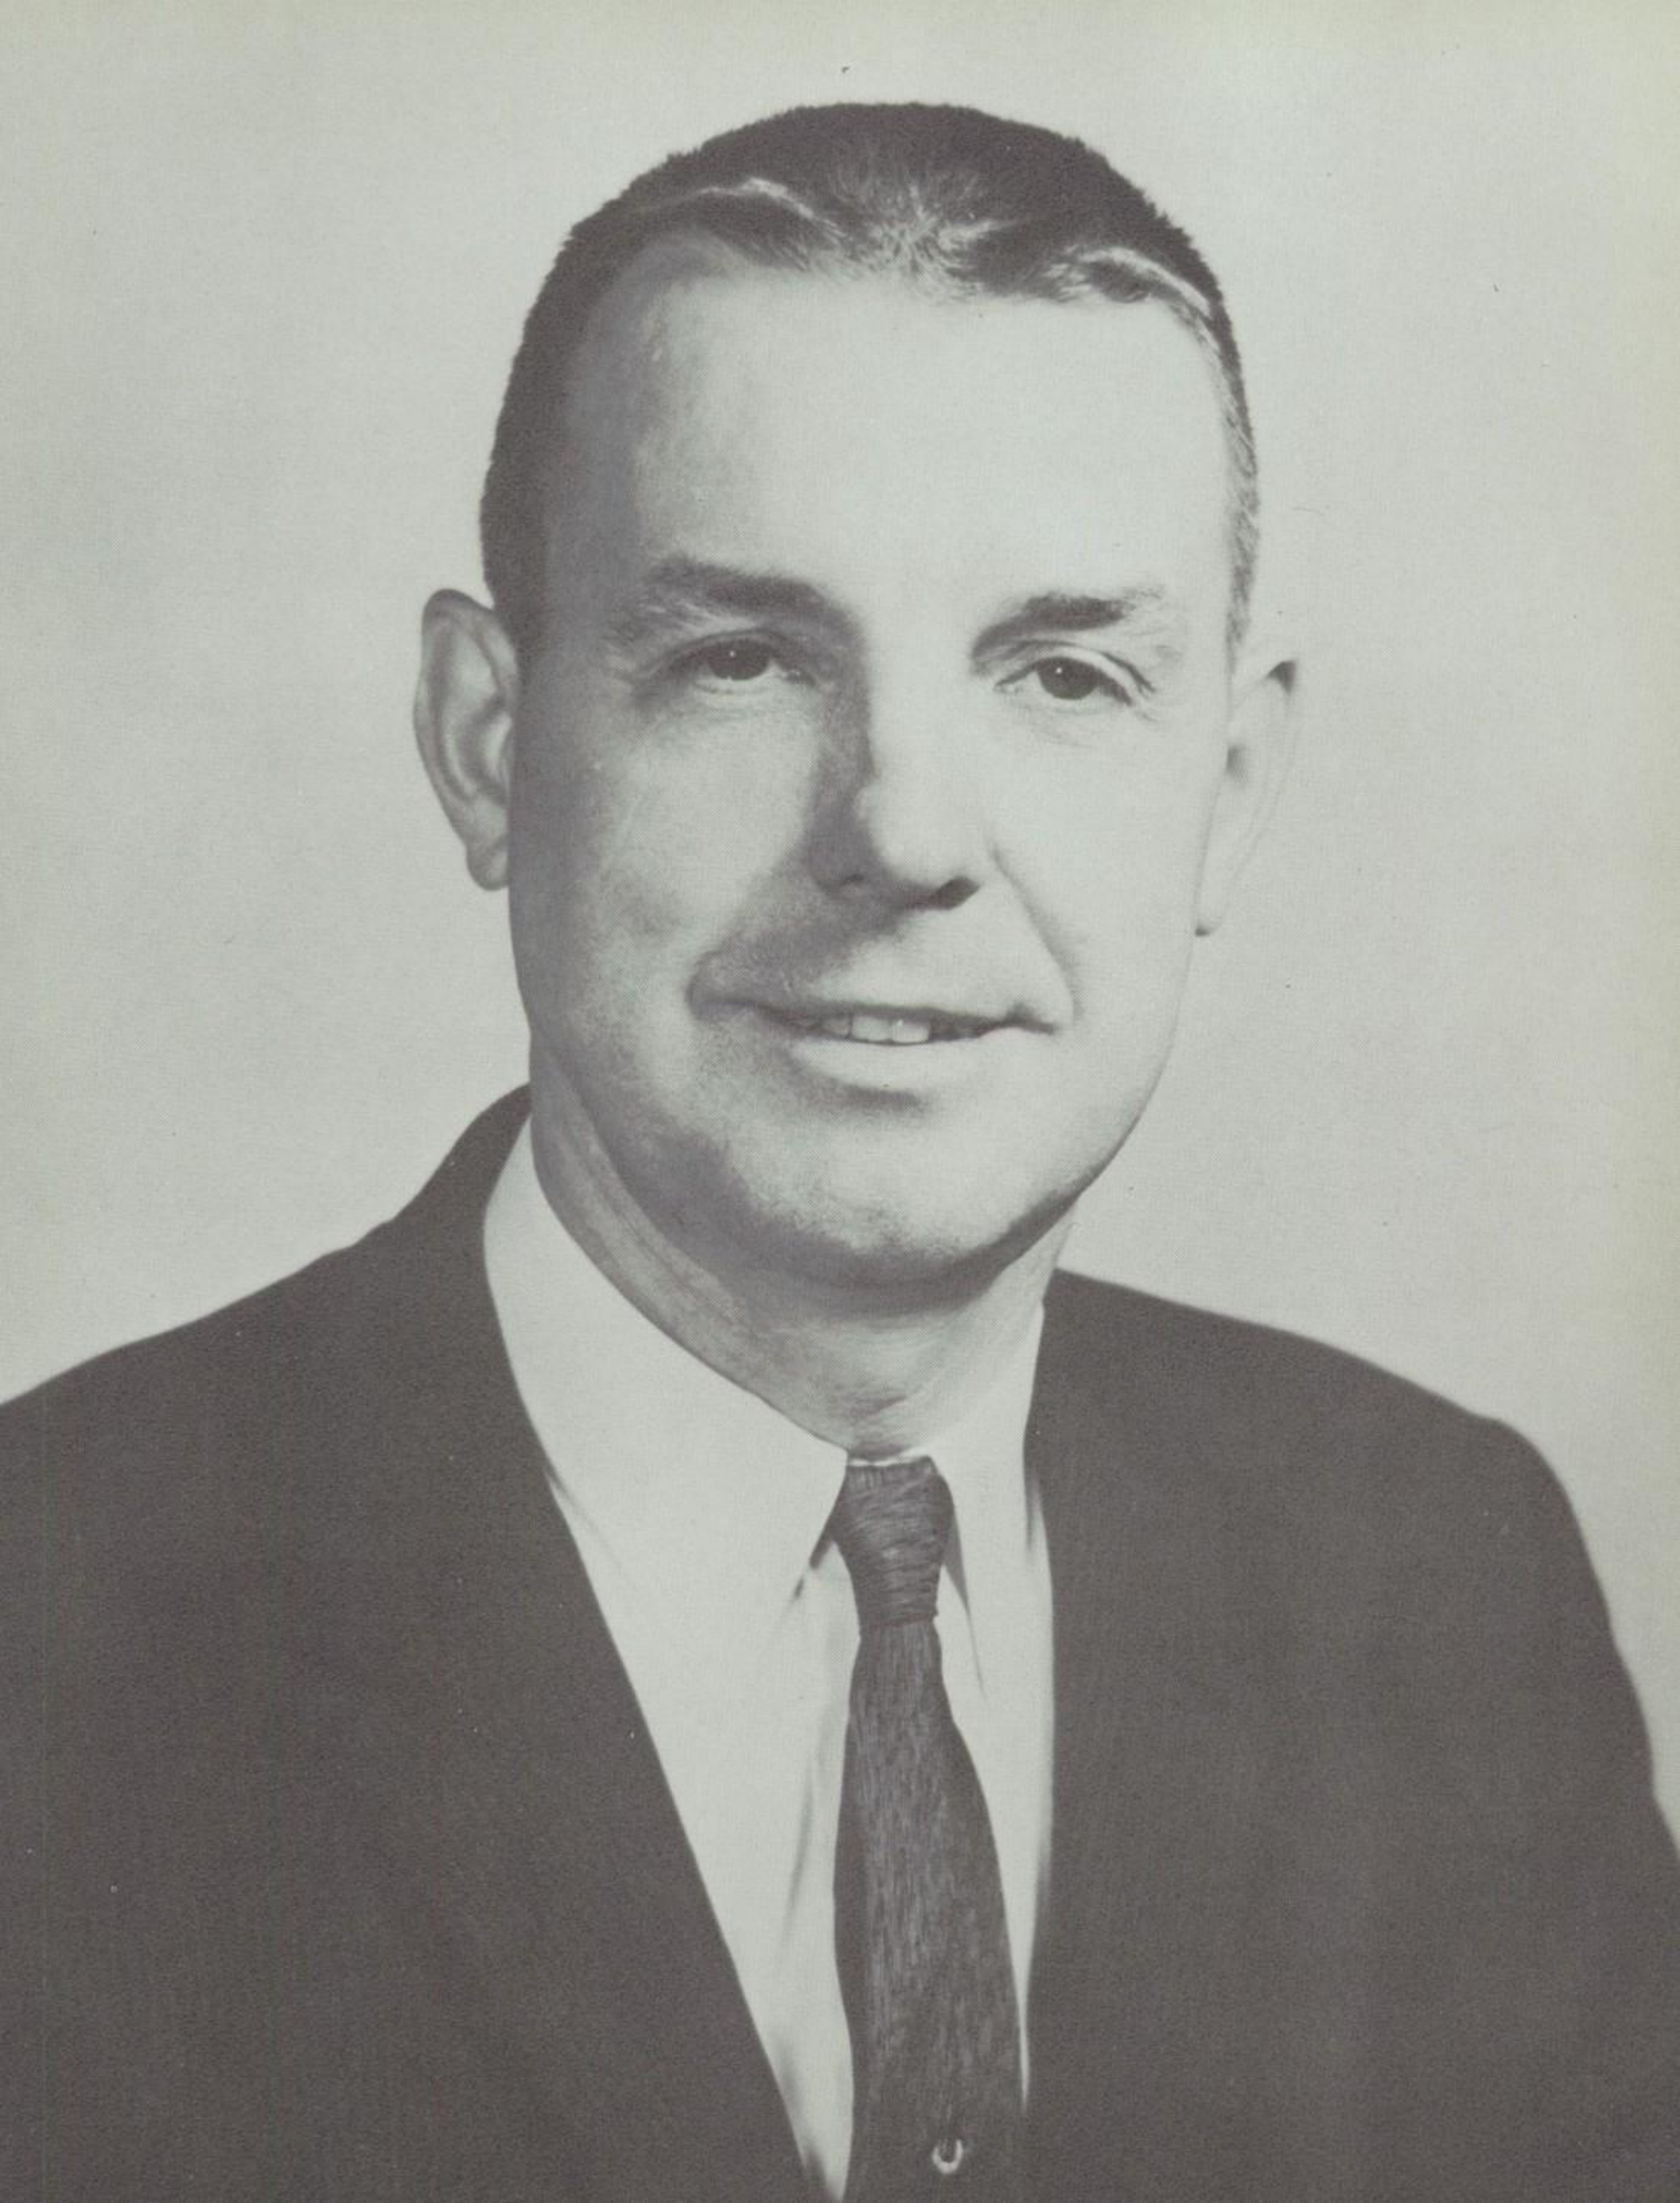

Upon retiring from military service, Mr. Crumrine secured a job teaching science and mathematics at Albion High School for one year. He and his wife (the former Margaret Kraushaar, whom he married in 1945) and their family moved to Marshall in 1947. Eight years after receiving his master's degree from the University of Michigan, he relinquished his science teaching to become assistant principal of Marshall High, although he still enjoys substituting in physics and chemistry. During the summer of 1958, he attended Cornell University on a Shell Merit Fellowship to study chemistry and science.

In addition to his many duties in the high school, and also Marshall's adult education program, our assistant principal is an active member in several professional organizations, including the Michigan and National Education Associations; locally, he participates on several committees of the Marshall Teachers' Club. In other capacities, he is now serving as immediate past-president of the Michigan Science Teachers' Association; he also holds memberships in the Michigan Counselors' Association, Local Guidance Association, and the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals.

Obviously, the above-mentioned keep him very busy, and yet he has managed to complete 19 years of service in the Air Force Reserve Squadron, Battle Creek. At present, he holds the rank of lieutenant colonel, and he is planning to have 22 years completed when he retires.

The William Crumrines now reside on North Linden with their three healthy youngsters, twelve-year-old Carol Sue, ten-year-old Jim, and Dan, who is six years of age. The entire family is active in church and community affairs.

Due to the aid and assistance you have always offered us, and the many accomplishments and successes of your own life, Mr. Crumrine, we take the greatest pleasure in dedicating to you our 1961 Dial.

Seniors

A black and white photograph of a rolled-up diploma. The diploma is a light-colored, rectangular piece of paper, tightly rolled into a cylinder. It is secured with a dark, ribbed ribbon that is tied in a bow around the middle. The ribbon has long, thin tails that hang down and curve to the left. The diploma is positioned diagonally across the frame, from the upper left towards the lower right. It rests on a dark, textured surface, possibly a table or a book cover. The lighting is soft, creating gentle shadows and highlights on the paper and ribbon.

Graduation day is the goal of all high-school students, for it is the day when one is recognized for his years of achievement; however, a diploma signifies more than the end of a period of worthwhile study, as it represents a ticket leading one to a new adult world. This new world may be filled with higher education, work, or marriage, depending on which one offers the best partnership for the individual.

With the help of the school, the faculty, and one's classmates, each student is conditioned and prepared for the final day in high school when this all-important decision for his future is placed before him. It is impossible, though, for these past associates to make the decision, for one's future must be planned by only the individual involved.

A senior cannot forget his past years, for involved within them are many events which have shadowed everlasting memories: sports, dances, assemblies, classes, teachers, and an innumerable amount of others that are all part of high-school life. On the other hand, a senior cannot help but plan for the future and continue to pick the best possible path for him to follow.

AS SHADOWS DESCEND

"Your high school years are the greatest of all" . . . a remark all students hear during their lifetime. We of the 1961 graduating class would like to express our deepest gratitude to MHS, the faculty, the students, and the community for truly making this statement true, and for helping us to make our past four years the most memorable yet; for all of us have made many lasting friendships and gathered an innumerable amount of memories which will be impossible to duplicate.

Jill Chamberlain, vice-president;
Genar Meserve, president;
Paula Brower, secretary-treasurer;
and Patty Zerbel and Lionel
Cushman, representatives.

Upon entering high school in 1957, we elected Bill Coolidge, Gail Deisenroth, and Kay Flynn to serve as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Soon afterwards our class received the honor of placing Janice Miller under the title of secretary-treasurer for the student council. To guide us "newcomers" through our initial year, we chose Mr. Pierce and Mrs. Gardner as our sponsors. During the homecoming festivities, we took great pride in presenting our first-place float, "Coldwater in Hotwater," and our first attendant on the queens' court, Marcia Devenney. Near the end of the year, it gave us great joy to have Kay Flynn reign as track queen.

Our sophomore year was opened by re-electing Bill Coolidge as president, and by electing Patty Zerbel as vice-president and Mary Denniston as secretary-treasurer. Also fulfilling an honorable position was Janice Miller, who remained as secretary-treasurer of the student council. We proceeded during homecoming to again take great pride in displaying our float, "Let's Put Them in Orbit," which took second place, and our queens' court attendant, Patty Zerbel. Our main project for the year was the "Puff Ball," and the great success of this, as well as our entire sophomore year, must be partially credited to our capable sponsors, Mr. Klein and Miss Heath.

Our junior year was filled with many events of great remembrance. A few of the outstanding items included our magazine sale, with which we took top standings; our class play, Onions In the Stew; and our wonderful J-Hop, "Sea Fantasy." Aiding us through our many activities were our reliable sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald. Many students were bestowed with honors throughout the year: Larry Baker served as president, Kay Flynn as vice-president, and Janet Place as secretary-treasurer of our class; Kay Flynn reigned as homecoming attendant from our class; Allen Powers was selected by the Rotary Club as Marshall's exchange student to Holland; and Norm Wood and Bill Coolidge were chosen to attend Wolverine Boys' State, while Patty Zerbel was selected to attend Girls' State.

With Genar Meserve as president, Jill Chamberlain as vice-president, Paula Brower as secretary-treasurer, and Mr. Vandersteen and Mrs. Neuman as class sponsors, our class was ably led through our final year. To bring back an old tradition of Marshall High, we elected Patty Zerbel and Lionel Cushman as class representatives. Homecoming again gave us memories with our victory in an all-school tug-of-war and the crowning of our queens, Kay Flynn and Janet Place. Many of our classmates were again recognized for their fine abilities in various fields: Jon Rivers was placed on the Twin Valley All-Conference football team; Bill Neuman became a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests; Mark Stuart and Janice Miller served as president and vice-president of the student council, respectively; and Patty Zerbel was awarded the Daughters of American Revolution Good Citizenship Award. Other events included welcoming our exchange student from England, Jill Chamberlain; our senior play, Thunder on Sycamore Street; the J-Hop; Class Day; Baccalaureate; and Graduation.

Yes, these were great and memorable years, and it is our sincere hope, for all who will follow, that they will have as many memories; and that they will enjoy and appreciate their few short years of high school . . . we thank you, MHS, for those which we have had.

SENIOR SNAPS

Underclassmen

Working hand-in-hand, the underclassmen strive toward their final year. During these three years of preparation, the three classes gather a sense of unity, for they all have the same goal in mind. The degree of accomplishment and value of these years will depend on the individual's determination, and, as a final result, each will be recognized for his own accomplishments.

It cannot be said that this large group of students will share all of their experiences in common, for there are many of the opposite nature. In actual effect, though, these are few in number. Underclassmen share, as a group, moments of happiness and sadness, moments of concern and disconcern, and moments of tranquility and disorder. There are bound to be struggles and blocking stones in these years; nevertheless, there remains anticipation of the result of a task well completed.

All too soon one reaches the final year. It is hoped by an individual's family, his teachers, and friends, that he and the others make the best of these years, for once they are over, they will never come back. These golden days and gay opportunities are here for the taking.

Officers for the junior class were
 Charlie Bagi, vice-president;
 Bill Askin, president;
 Carol Blakeslee, secretary-treasurer.

Junior High

By being so closely associated with the upperclassmen, and working day-by-day with them, a junior-high student develops a goal: to someday be classified as a high-school student. Just as higher education is important, so is that of the junior high. Younger students must be prepared for the day when they will enter high school, for it is indeed a big step. They will then be faced with more problems, activities, studies, and responsibilities. Since everyone realizes the importance of these students, it is the ultimate goal of their leaders that they may prepare them properly for that day in September when they will enroll as freshmen.

Faculty and Classes

Without an adequate education for those enrolled in Marshall High, the school wouldn't have a primary reason for existing. No one factor in the offering of an adequate education is more important than the faculty members. Cannot everyone recall a teacher who encouraged, stimulated, motivated, or perhaps changed him in some way? Leading the community in such a way as to raise the level of Marshall High, the students take great pride in all the members of the faculty. It is due to the humble role that they play in preparing us future adults, perhaps not yet fully aware of our teachers' significant contribution, that we dedicate the following section.

Athletics help an individual to learn the meaning of sportsmanship, teamwork, and spirit. Marshall High School offers various athletic activities for both the senior high and junior high, and for both the trained and untrained. Athletics are not only a great help for the physical being of an individual, but also they bring about a common cause for the students—the students all want the team to do its best. In order for the team to perceive this, the student body must be a unified group of spectators, and, under the leadership of the cheerleaders, support the team at all events, whether they are winning or losing. The team and coach also must have this unity: the team cannot work without the coach, the coach cannot work with the team, and one player cannot work without his teammates. Athletics are important to a school, for if the students and team show spirit, then athletics can bring them together and keep them thusly so.

Marshall High's Redskins, led by Head Coach Clark and his new assistant, Mr. Sackrider, were a hard-fighting and experienced team this year. The team maintained its high spirit, even though the record shows a losing season; however, they did gain in many respects, such as placing Jon Rivers and Tom Aylward on the Twin Valley All-Conference team with John Barnes, Sam McKeever, and Larry Baker receiving Honorable Mention.

Varsity managers for the the '60 gridiron season were Larry Willis and Mike McLain.

Winners of the 1960 football awards, receiving their honors from Coach Clark, were Genar Meservey, Most Humorous; Mr. Clark; Jon Rivers, Most Valuable; and Tom Aylward, Most Improved.

Chosen by the team, the co-captains were Larry Baker and Jon Rivers.

Bates & Co. Place 3rd in Twin Valley Conference

After placing third in Twin Valley competition, Coach Clark's band of Redskins captured the class "B" District championship for the second consecutive year. The squad, behind captain Russ Bates' record-breaking point total, turned in a 9-7 record for the season and went on to defeat Albion and Charlotte to win the District trophy. By losing in Regional action, seniors Bates, Larry Baker, Genar Meservey, Jon Rivers, and Norm Wood closed out their varsity days in a blaze of glory as they lost a tough, hard-fought encounter to Coldwater, 64-57.

Varsity coach, Mr. Clark, discusses new ideas with junior varsity coach, Mr. Sackrider.

Marshall High would like to introduce an addition of four girls to the cheerleading squad. These girls are called the freshman cheerleaders, and they participate at all freshman games and in two pep rallies during the year. This squad was formed to encourage and give experience to those girls wishing to become cheerleaders in their future years.

Also new this year are the six uniforms for the junior varsity squad, and for the first time in Marshall's history, the varsity squad is made up of six senior girls.

During last year's summer vacation, several junior varsity and varsity cheerleaders were guests of the Smith Walbridge Camp in Syracuse, Indiana, sponsored by the athletic department. These girls took first place in the final competition over several other schools from the United States.

Under the supervision of Miss Ferraro, our cheerleaders have done much to build team spirit and encourage the students to much higher school spirit.

Freshman cheerleaders were (top to bottom) Pat Rowbotham, Sandra Ward, Jean Waggon, and Kay Conrad.

This year a number of activities for homecoming were added to the general program. All was started a few weeks ahead of time when the juniors and seniors started on the float for the queens, and the sophomores and freshmen started on the queens' court's float.

To arouse local spirit, the cheerleaders prepared a tee-pee in front of the Michigan National Bank with two "live" Indians keeping watch twenty-four hours a day. To show the team which class was the most anxious to win the big game on Friday night, there was a tug-of-war across a "sea of mud" in which the seniors took top honors. A great deal of spirit was displayed the night before the game with Sturgis, as the students, band, and cheerleaders marched out to the field for the junior varsity game and bonfire.

Following the traditional parade and game on Friday was the crowning of the queens at the Sweetheart Ball on Saturday night.

Entertainment

Many memories of one's high-school days come from the lighter side of education, simply stated as "entertainment," and are acquired through extra-curricular activities, school programs, and performances by one's classmates. Because of the varied experiences gained through entertainment and activities, it is impossible to say that education involves only the knowledge gained from books, for there is still the social phase. When one partakes in an activity, such as band, choir, a play, or a formal, he is helping to add life to the school, the students, and mostly to himself. It is not expected that a student will spend four years in high school "cracking the books" only, for then he would not have gained socially . . . a basic part of everyone's education.

For the first time in many years, the senior band began their eventful year in new uniforms. With the help of the community and the school this was made possible. This year, as in many years before, the group was under the direction of Mr. Harris.

Increases in Size, Quality

Under the capable direction of Mr. Day, a new addition to the faculty of Marshall High this year, the high-school choir has made great advances toward the top. Throughout the 1960-61 school year, they presented the annual Christmas and Easter assemblies, plus many other activities. Aside from performing for others, the choir enjoyed working as a group and receiving a chance to display their fine voices. The great success of this group adds a great deal to Marshall High and its community.

Thunder on Sycamore Street, by Kristin Sergel, was presented Friday, November 18, by the senior class. This drama was successfully presented due to expert directing, dexterous acting, and the teamwork displayed among the students involved.

The story revolves around a group of neighbors on Sycamore Street who get together in a mob to force Mr. Blake, a former "jail-bird," and his family to leave the neighborhood. If, they say, he does not leave, they will turn to violence. The crowd is turned away by Mr. Blake's firm standing, and, thus, all ends on a happy note.

As director, Miss Burlingame may take credit for having directed a very moving and successful play.

Sea

It has been a custom in past years for each junior class to present the J-Hop at the close of the school year in honor of the graduating class. "Sea Fantasy" was the choice of last year's juniors. The formal was presented for the class of '60 on May 28. The boys' gym was beautifully arrayed with blue paper and symbols of the sea. The main attraction was a huge clam-shell at the south end of the gym in which pictures were taken; it was decorated with pink and white crepe paper and measured ten feet in height.

As general chairman, Janice Miller succeeded in seeing that the other chairmen fulfilled their duties: Vicki Hemmingsen and Sandy McLain, decorations; Mark Stuart, entertainment; Jean Thompke, programs and invitations; Jon Rivers, refreshments; and Genar Meservey, clean-up.

As one of many GAA activities every year, the girls of the organization present a winter formal. This year the memorable night was December 10. A month ahead of time the chairmen and theme were chosen, the chairmen having been Vicki Hemmingsen and Cheryl Ulrich, decorations; Barb Chester, programs and invitations; Jean Thompke, entertainment; and Doretta Hartung, clean-up. The theme was "Tiara Dream," and throughout the gym were many tiaras and angels covering the walls.

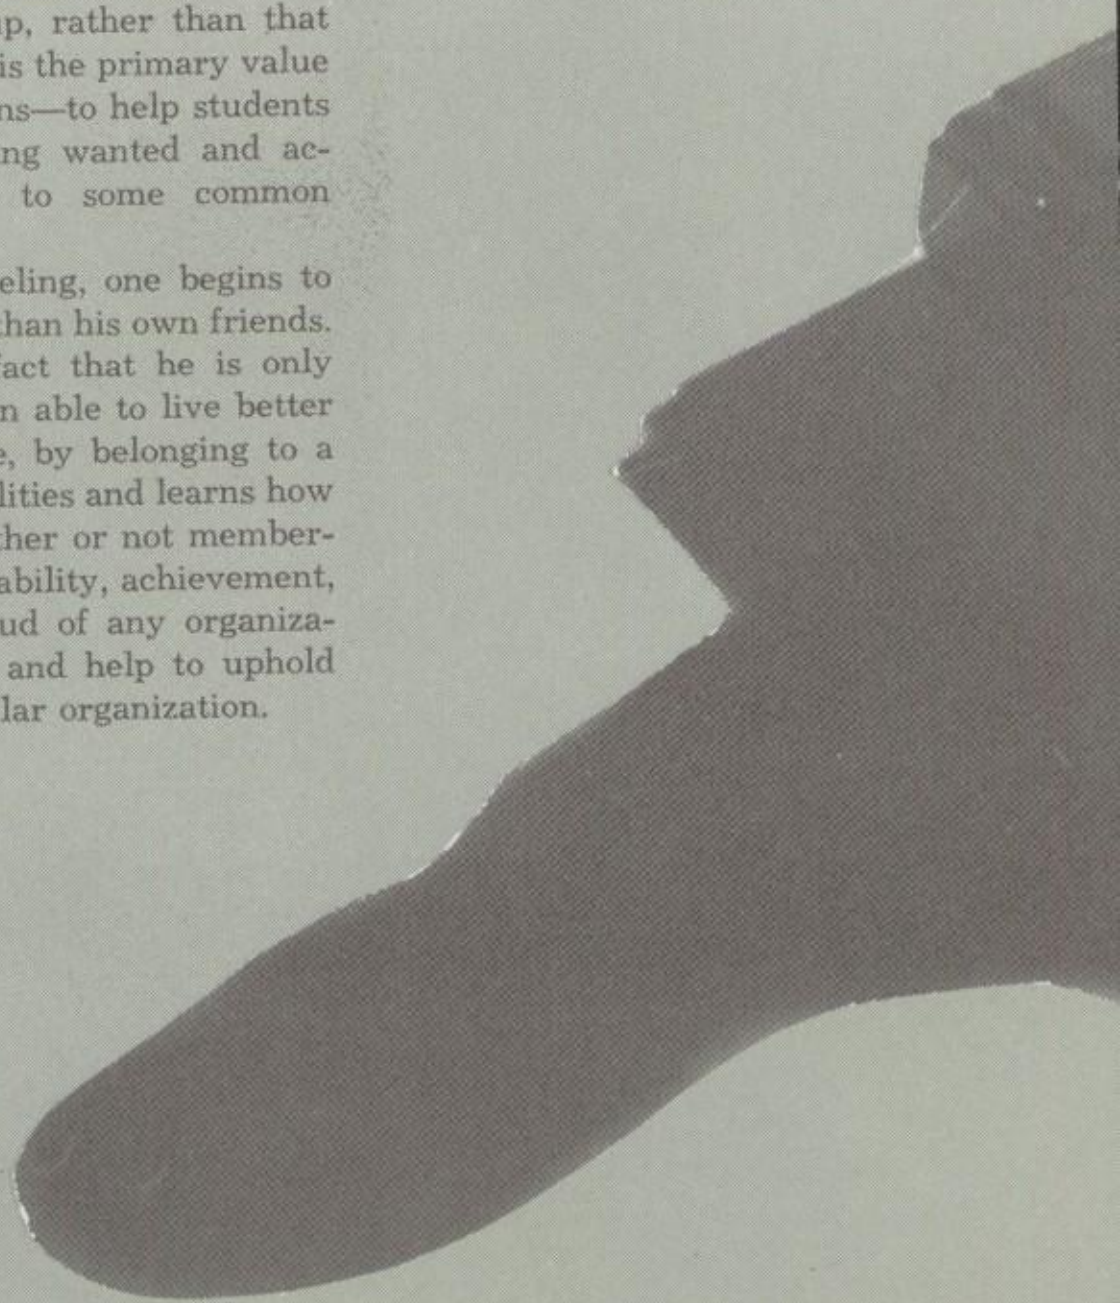

Tiara Dream

Organizations

For many reasons, all clubs and organizations are unable to meet the needs of all students, and it is obvious that a student cannot become an active member of them all. The large number of both the organizations and students alone make it impossible. However, it is of utmost importance that all students be associated with some group, rather than that of only an individual. This is the primary value and purpose of organizations—to help students acquire the feeling of being wanted and accepted, and contributing to some common cause.

Having grasped this feeling, one begins to meet more students, other than his own friends. He learns to accept the fact that he is only one of many and he is then able to live better with himself. Furthermore, by belonging to a club, he gathers responsibilities and learns how to work with others. Whether or not membership in a club is based on ability, achievement, or class, one must be proud of any organization to which he belongs and help to uphold the standing of the particular organization.

Yearbook and Record Shadows

Many long and tedious hours go into the making of a yearbook, just as they do in any successful project. The members of the Dial staff take much pride in presenting their annual to you. Throughout the year the staff developed a great sense of responsibility, promptness, and neatness, all of which are necessary in the making of an annual. Mr. Riley spent much time with the group as adviser and as a helper with ideas and corrections.

"Good idea!" stated Mr. Jack Cobb on one of his frequent visits as Sales Representative for Edwards Brothers yearbook company.

Barb Chester, reporter; John Carroll and John Malinowski, photographers.

Bi-Weekly Staffs

of 1960 - 61

Led by Mr. Riley, the members of the bi-weekly staff were occupied throughout the year with giving many extra hours to the publishing of the Highlight. One must not read the high-school paper without stopping to realize all the hard work that is required to compose and publish it. Due to this hard work and well-done job, it is necessary that everyone congratulate all those who helped to publish it.

Betty Myers, co-exchange editor; Sandy McLain, art editor; and Jennie Shaw, co-exchange editor.

Honor Society Membership Reaches All-Time High During 1961

At the sixth annual induction ceremony, March 9, the Marshall Chapter of National Honor Society membership reached an all-time high, with a total of thirty-five seniors and juniors. Those considered for membership were selected by the faculty on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Before being considered, juniors must have a scholastic average of B+ or better, while a B or above is required for seniors.

Belonging to the National Honor Society is one of the highest and greatest honors that one could receive. It is the hope of the community, the faculty, and Miss Merritt—sponsor of the organization—that all members will wear their emblems with honor and pride, and that they will never do anything that will bring dishonor to the Marshall Chapter or to the Society itself.

NHS sponsor, Miss Merritt

Two-year members of National Honor Society are (sitting) Sue Weber, Patty Zerbel, Janice Miller, Sally DuBane, Marcia Lindberg, Jean Thompke; (standing) Mark Stuart, Bill Stiner, Dave Hatfield-chairman, and Dick Cook.

Seniors: Vicki Hemmingsen, Roxy Lamphier, Frances Boyd, Marcia Devenney, Jennie Shaw, Jean Thompke, Janice Miller, Marcia Lindberg, Sally DuBane, Sue Weber.

Serving You Is Their Objective

Head Usher Patty Zerbel, Senior

Each year the members of the faculty choose a set number of girls for membership in the Usher Club. Since it is a privilege only a few girls can enjoy, the members serve their school and community with the utmost pride. The girls being considered for membership are chosen on the basis of personality, appearance, reliability, and character. This service club holds a fine record for ushering at most school activities and at the Civic Theater productions. For the past ten years, the Usher Club has been under the capable direction of Miss Merritt.

Juniors: Sharon Rhoads, Martha J. Holt, Sue Coakes, Beryl Rhinehart, Margaret Currie, Kathy Powers. Missing was Claudia Eishenhauer.

Student Council Shadows Over All

Representing the student body of Marshall High School in such a way as to benefit each individual concerned with the school, the Student Council deserves a great deal of recognition. To better represent each and every student of Marshall, seven standing committees are chosen. On each committee is one student from each class, and these committees, working with the officers and advised by Mr. Rose, meet when necessary and make decisions which concern the school, the students, and the faculty.

Bible Club officers helping to sell candy were Bruce Norton, vice-president; Jennie Shaw, president; Char Hosek, treasurer; and Janice Miller, secretary.

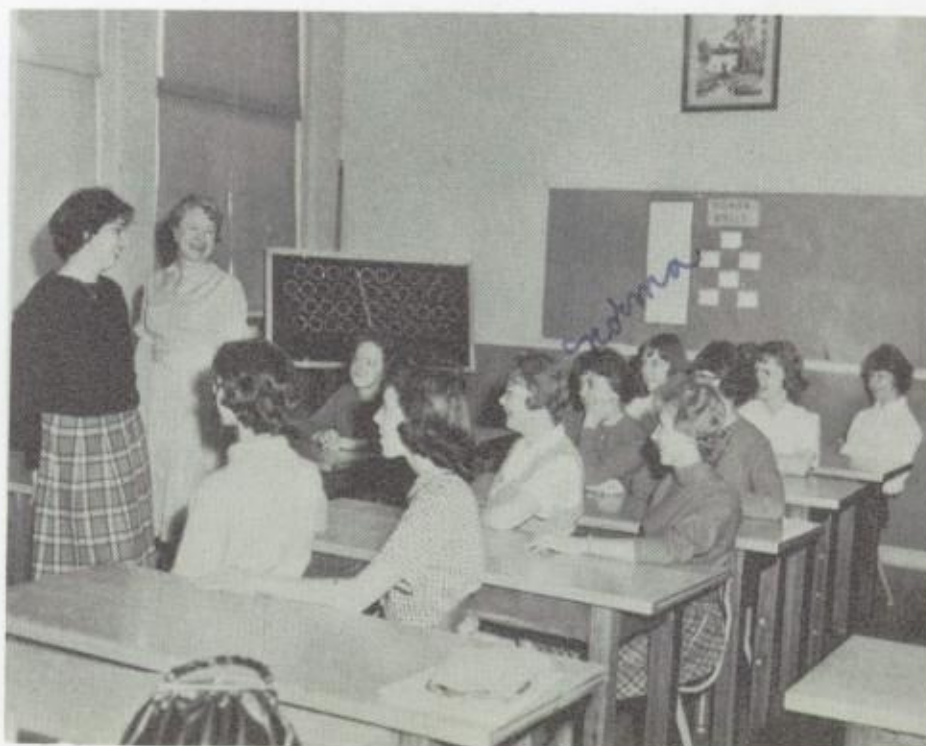

Seeking to encourage a more religious attitude among the students, and to teach them more about the Bible, are the purposes of the Bible Club, which has been led by Miss Wingate. Every Friday, during the noon hour, the club met to hear Scripture readings, sing, and to meditate. Frequently, ministers from different denominations delivered short lectures. Throughout the 1961-62 year, the group sponsored activities, such as their successful candy bar sale, and was continually striving toward developing Christian students at MHS.

Bible, Secretarial Clubs

Enlighten Concepts of Tomorrow

In order to promote more interest, and to learn more about secretarial and office work, the Secretarial Club has been formed under the leadership of Mrs. Rhinehart. Those girls interested in such a vocation heard speakers and made visits throughout the year to offices where a secretary would be required.

Leading our future secretaries this year were Nancy Smith, president; Sue Harrington, vice-president; Marie Rewa, secretary; and Mrs. Rhinehart, sponsor.

Along with presenting an annual winter formal and sponsoring homecoming, the Girls' Athletic Association shows the greatest interest in providing a chance for girls to become interested in sports. Any girl in high school may become a member, provided she earns twelve points and shows interest in the activities. Various sports offered for the girls include bowling, dodge ball, and basketball. Doing a fine job leading the girls this year was their sponsor, Miss Ferraro.

GAA officers and representatives were Kay Flynn, senior representative; Carol Cook, junior representative; Linda Pollard, sophomore representative; Sandy McLain, president; Gloria Zink, vice-president; and Annette Crawford, secretary-treasurer.

GAA, Varsity Club Use Athletics to Build Stamina and Sportsmanship

In order for a boy to become a member of the Varsity Club, he must have earned a varsity letter in one of the major sports. Guidance of the boys is taken into hand by the entire coaching staff, which, in turn, expect the boys to live up to and follow the five points of the "M": sportsmanship, scholarship, citizenship, spirit, and attitude. By sponsoring dances and other fund-raising projects, the boys conclude their activities by taking a trip with the coaches near the end of the school year.

Varsity Club officers for 1960-61 were Russ Bates, president; Larry Baker, vice-president; and Bruce Norton, secretary-treasurer.

To be a member of the Future Farmers of America, boys must be enrolled in vocational agriculture and be accepted by the other members. Leading the group are Mr. Anderson and Mr. Grossbauer who seek to promote the interests of agriculture-minded students by taking field trips and providing informative meetings.

Using the Present to Prepare for the Future

The Future Homemakers of America is a national organization for girls who have had at least one semester in homemaking. The girls work with their sponsors, Mrs. Foster and Miss Wingate, to serve school, community, state, and nation by holding teas, suppers, banquets, and project nights.

Officers for FHA were Marlene Costa, merit chairman; Lynne Jelenik, treasurer; Carolyn Drumm, vice-president; Sue Reagle, president; Doris Hazel, secretary; and Sandy Fairbanks, reporter.

Mrs. Foster and Miss Wingate, sponsors.

"Lux Esto!"

By practicing the customs of the early Romans, their dress and food, and their language, the members of Societas Latina live and learn through experience. These customs serve as interesting material for programs at their annual banquet and Roman Holiday, and for their newspaper. The club, with all of its varied activities, is under the guidance of Miss Shafer, MHS Latin teacher.

Latin Club sponsor, Miss Shafer, discusses plans with Tom Bump, program chairman; Mary Lincoln, treasurer; Mike McLain, president; Mary Stealy, secretary; and Mike Maurer, newspaper editor.

"C'est Si Bon!"

Le Cercle Francais, composed of students studying French, is under the leadership of Marshall's French teacher, Mr. Sanback. Throughout the school year, members publish a newspaper, give a banquet, and partake in the annual French Day — a day designated for the purpose of meeting French students from other schools.

Dave Hatfield, president; Marg Currie, treasurer; Sue Weber, co-chairman; Marie Rewa, secretary; Sandy McLain, vice-president; Jon Rivers, co-chairman; and Mr. Sanback, sponsor.

Debate---

Reflects Sound Reasoning

Throughout the debate season, the team engaged with a number of other schools and was striving to learn the different techniques of successful debating. The students involved learned to think clearly, quickly, and accurately. They also learned to express themselves fully and correctly. This year the group was led by Mrs. Braithwaite.

Debaters for the 1960-61 season were (standing) John English, Kathy Powers, and Steve Chapman; (seated) Margaret Currie and Jill Chamberlain.

FNA, Library Club

Strive to Serve

School and Community

Composed of those girls who work during their free hour, the Library Club is under Mrs. Reyer's direction. The girls sponsor a dance during the year and seek to help students in their use of the library.

Future Nurses' Club officers were Carolyn Drumm, president, and Cheri Caywood, secretary-treasurer. Missing were Vera Tabiadon, vice-president, and Carol Galloway, recording secretary.

Under the guidance of Miss Truesdell and Mrs. Perrett, the Future Nurses' Club is composed of girls interested in nursing, therapy, and medicine. The girls work together to strive for more interest in their field and seek to learn more about it by visiting hospitals and having guest speakers.

Marshall has many quality stores run by good businessmen and women who try to offer the kind of goods their customers want and to carry products that meet the needs and standards of their community. They advertise widely to help inform customers and to educate the buying public.

They are proud of their city and their school, just as they are of their own establishments. They are courteous and business-like when solicited for advertising by students. They regard advertising in high-school publications as informative and educational and expect it to be worth something to them.

We are proud to carry the advertising of the business firms of Marshall.
